

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a seatbelt retractor of an automobile, which is provided with a frictional clutching means for decreasing the rotating speed of a drum shaft where a webbing and a spiral spring are fixed, whereby locking of a vehicle sensor
5 is inhibited by reducing the shock caused by sudden expansion of the spiral spring.